

Miscellaneous

Developmental Milestones

From the University of Michigan. The page gives parents a guide to developmental milestones for children from birth to age five, plus problems that should be reported to your child's doctor. The information comes from the American Academy of Pediatrics. There is also links to speech and language milestones and adolescent development.

<http://www.med.umich.edu/1libr/yourchild/devmile.htm>

What Parents Should Know About Measles-Mumps-Rubella (MMR) Vaccine and Autism

This is a parent handout produced by the American Academy of Pediatrics. It addresses some of the controversy and fears parents may have about vaccination. There is plenty of controversial information on in Internet (and elsewhere) about this topic, but this is a short summary of the arguments for vaccination, the Wakefield findings, and the evidence about autism linkage to the MMR vaccine.

http://www.cispimmunize.org/fam/fam_main.html

Oops! Wrong Planet Syndrome

For a truly astounding collection of websites on every imaginable facet of Autism Spectrum Disorders, visit Oops, Wrong Planet Syndrome, which is maintained by Jypsy Norman-Bain, a woman with Asperger's Syndrome who lives in Prince Edward Island. Because the author of the site is Canadian, there are a lot of Canadian links here as well. Enter into the heart of the site through Jypsy's "Maze". If you can't find what you're looking for on this site, it probably doesn't exist.

<http://www.isn.net/~jypsy/>